Fire and Explosion in Yellow Jacket Mine, Nevada—Several Lives Lost—The Fire Gaining at Last Account—San Francisco, Sept. 20.—At Gold Hill, Nevada, at three o'clock this morning, while the workmen were eating lunch, a fire broke out in a blacksmith shop belonging to Belcher & Co., situated 1,300 feet above the level, in the Yellow Jacket mine. The timber being very dry, the fire spread rapidly and soon filled Yellow Jacket, Crown Point and Belcher mines with smoke and gas. About a quarter past three explosions occurred, which put out the lights in all the mines. Men were hurrying from Crown Point and Belcher shafts very rapidly. All escaped but six whose bodies have since been recovered. Communication between Imperial on the north, and Crown Point on the south, has been cut off. There is no danger of the gas spreading. The firemen can do nothing toward extinguishing the fire, but it is in a place where there is not much timber, consequently it will soon die out. Work will be promptly commenced at Belcher and Crown Point as soon as possible.
